

The 14th Annual World On Your Plate Food and Sustainable Living Conference

October 6 & 7, 2017

Friday (5 - 9 pm) and Saturday (8:30 am - 5 pm)

Daemen College, Wick Campus Center, 4380 Main St, Amherst, NY 14226

Time is flying by as we prepare for another great upcoming conference. This year's forum will once again be hosted by Daemen College. We look forward to an eventful weekend exploring many food-related issues from soil quality to the impact of food on our individual bodies as well as the entire earth.

Friday evening will feature the documentary "Cesar Chavez," followed by Q&A with Arturo Rodriguez, current president of the Farm Workers Union and the son-in-law of Cesar Chavez. Saturday will once again feature two speakers: Arturo Rodriguez in the morning and Linda Black Elk, ethnobotanist and restoration ecologist, in the afternoon, as well as multiple workshops, vendors, informational tables and entertainment.

Daemen's Hallmark chef & sous chefs will prepare a locally grown, organic, vegetarian lunch. Produce is donated by our local organic farmers and each year the cafeteria chef & staff comes up with a spectacular lunch! A true culinary delight!

The event will culminate with a closing celebration with music, cider and possibly a glass of wine. A great time to relax with friends, network, or check out vendors & informational tables (get a head start on some holiday shopping!), raffle baskets, seed exchange & door prize.

Ticket prices remain the same as last year: $10 - $35 (students pre-registered & with ID are free). Includes all meals. Financial assistance is available.
